Personal Statement

For over 30 years, thousands of people have turned to me for advice and comfort in times of need...and I have heeded their calls, whether harmed in an accident or accused of a crime.

I treat every client exactly the way I would want to be treated: with respect, dignity, and warmth. My clients remain friends, knowing that I am available for them in any situation with advice and counsel. Just call me and I will answer.

I tell all prospective clients, trying to make a decision concerning the hiring of a lawyer to ask one thing: The first question to your lawyer is "How many cases have you tried in court?"....
.....In my case, the answer is over "One Thousand" trials, trying cases from Federal Court to County Courts, in many jurisdictions and before hundreds of Judges, pleading to thousands of Jurors.

When you walk into a courtroom, facing a Judge, a Jury, or an Adversary, you want to feel respected and at ease knowing that you will be guided through an uncertain path... When clients say "Joe's my Lawyer" they do so with pride and knowledge that I am by their side with vast courtroom experience, knowledge of the law, and the heart of a Lion.

I was born and raised in South Philadelphia, with the good fortune to be reared in a loving environment. I attended Bishop Neumann High School and then went onto LaSalle University eventually meeting a Federal Magistrate Judge named Tullio Leomporra, who changed the course of my life by persuading me to enroll in Law School instead of completing an MBA. I graduated from Temple University School of Law in 1987. I immediately began trying cases and have continued until the present time, gaining the respect of my colleagues and the admiration of my clients.

I have served as a Judge Pro Tem in the Court of Common Pleas; as a Presiding Judge in the Temple National Trial Advocacy Program, and remain as a Law Clerk to the Honorable Joan A. Brown in the Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas. I have had the honor of addressing thousands of people in my profession but the best talks I have given are to the Children of Philadelphia and South Jersey, at their schools, guiding them and advising them to avoid bad decisions and to take the time to make the right choices.

With the experience, knowledge, and resources of my Firm, I will fulfill the commitment to our clients by personally advising them on the Best Course to follow for their case. If I cannot take on your case, I will refer you to an attorney specializing in a specific area of the law that is needed. You will then have the benefit of two lawyers for the price of one.
